CINCINNATI. O., Sept. 14-William H. Taft devoted himself today principally to political composition. He wrote an answer to Mr. Bryan's comment on President Roosevelt's Taft letter, after which he spent the latter part of the day in the preparation of the two speeches he is to make tomorrow—the first to a delegation from Greenfield. Ind., the other to the Methodist negro preachers of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

Mr. Taft's reply to Mr. Bryan was a natter the importance of which seemed to grow on the candidate. When he was first shown what Mr. Bryan had said, the spontaneous answer was short and terse; then Mr. Taft indicated that he would dictate t formal reply, which in turn was revised

This is Mr. Taft's reply: "In my notification speech, and in other speeches made since. I attempted to make understand them I cannot make them | cies clearer. "The readiness with which Mr. Bryan in successive presidential campaigns, passes from one paramount issue to another shows that the chief consideration which affected his selection of an issue has been its plausibility in attracting voice. He presents the Governor Cummins. remarkable spectacle of one who has been seeking the presidency for twelve years without success and without official responsibility, and without the opportunity to test the various propositions which he has advocated for reforms, and yet of having events demonstrate what a colonial fallure he would have made in each instance had he been permitted to carry his proposals forward as the policies of the

"He has not permitted himself to discuss in his campaign the issue of anti-imperialism which was the paramount issue in 1000 as he declared, and in respect to which the policy of the republican party has been vindicated by the event, so that tranguility and a good government exist in the Philippine islands, and even the independint prefer republican victory to Mr. how it came there.

"He new says that he favors the more rigid regulation of the railroads. Strong Opposition to Hughes. The opening hours of today found the anti-Haghes forces ready to renew with unrelenting persistence the dogged fight to accomplish the governor's defeat. It is doubtful whether a precise parallel of the circumstances can be found in recent political history in this state. The strengthof the force behind the movement for the renomination of the governor is of unknown own volition, would be for him or against him; his forces are unorganized and seemingly without any visible center about which or whom to raily. Even the most enthusiastic advocates of the governor's reomination admitted early today that the delegates opposed to him could easily defeat him if they could be brought to unite upon any other candidate.

The discovery of the hat worn by Dr. Frederick T.
